AFTERNOON DISPATCHES

The Tombstone Fire — Who the Losers are and their Losses.

P. C. Brooks, Postmaster at Tombstone—San Francisco's Manufactures—Petitioning for Lowell's Recall.

[Associated Press Dispatches.]

TOMBSTONE (A. T.), May 26.—The following is an account of the fire which occurred here, as published in the Epitaph, the only paper saved from the conflagration. The fire started in a water-closet in the rear of the Tivoli saloon on Allen street. It soon communicated with the frame-work of the garden in the rear of the saloon. The wood being dry, it ignited and burned with the rapidity of cotton. Numerous shanties surrounded the burning pile. Closets, kitchens, store-rooms in the rear, and with the wood trimmings on the adobe walls on the front, the flames were easily fed. The sumptuous appartments of the Tombstone club in the Grand hotel building, were among the first to kiss the flames. The general building of the Grand hotel was next embraced in the fiery arm. The wooden stair-case on the outside of the building, in the rear, fell an easy victim; next the window-frames communicated the flames to the interior, and carpets, floors, furniture, etc., fed the fiery element. An Epitaph reporter immediately after

THE ALARM OF FIRE,

and before the department were yet on the ground, climed on top of the adobe building in the rear of the Grand Hotel. A glance was sufficient to convince him that the fire would be one of enormous extent. All the surroundings were peculiarly adapted to flame-food. The Tivoli garden was roofed with canvas. Of course this was swept off instantly. East of it was the Chinese laundry fronting on Fifth street. The clothes lines in the rear and adjoining the burning structures were laden with clothes hung out to dry. These fed the flames, and in less than fifteen minutes the entire space between Fourth and Fifth streets and Allen and Toughnut was one steaming, smoking, blazing mass of desolation and ruin: The firemen, than whom no braver body of men, or more worthy of thanks exist, turned their attention to

THE HERCULEAN TASK

Of saving the north side of the street, but it was impossible. The firemen fronted the flames until most of them were scorched, and finally doggedly made up their minds to keep up their contest in another quarter. The flames rapidly spread. Soon the Occidental saloon was enveloped. The Alhambra saloon followed, and the mad sea of vicious fire spread on each side to the Cosmopolitan Hotel on the west, and the Eagle brewery on the east. Safford's saloon was soon a seething mass of flames. Brown's hotel followed suit, and the fire-fiend, ere many minutes, had the Fourth street gun store safely in his arms. Here a scene was presented mangnificent in its lurid, fierce grandeur. A large quantity of powder was stored in the cellar and a number of cartridges and other explosive materials were in the store. Here, as soon as the flames were communicated to the combustibles, a wild scene presented itself, the loud bursting of cartridges, the explosion of powder, added to the shouting of the men, and the timid screams of women, made

THE AIR HORRIBLE

With their resounding echoes. But the heart of Tombstone was doomed. None but visionary enthusiasts hoped that anything but the straggling suburbs could be saved; but hope beat high in the human breast, and the gallant firemen, aided by the police, under Chief Nagle, and a number of deputies under Sheriff Behan, struggled manfully to stem the storm. The wind was not blowing an extraordinary gale, and only the fiery flames had to be fought. The flames reached Fremont and rapidly spread the entire distance between Fourth and Fifth streets. At the corner of Fifth and Allen a noble struggle took place. The fiery elements, with gaunt, hungry arms, thirsted to cross the street and capture the Oriental. Here the firemen got in their best work. It was

A PITCHED BATTLE.

The weak water and the impetuous onset of the flames made it almost certain that the latter would conquer; but Blackburn rallied his gallant little fire company, a steady stream was poured on, and the greedy destroyer was beaten. Joyce, who suffered so heavily at the former fire, came off in this instance with moderate damage. His loss will be about two thousand dollars. All the liquors he had on hand he distributed to the gallant defenders of the city, and his house is much gutted up with the water stream. The porch is torn down and most of his glassware either broken, lost or destroyed. But the flames swept on ward. Fourth street was crossed, the clothing house of Laventhal on the corner of Fourth and Allen was enveloped. The Nugget office was reached and quickly swept from the face of the earth. The other buildings on the same block

WERE QUICKLY SWEPT AWAY.

It reached Fremont street on that side, but, thanks to the combined efforts of firemen, deputy sheriffs, police and citizens, the fire was conquered. The backbone of the fell destroyer was broken and the west end of the block bounded by Third street was saved. The postoffice, Bent's, Schieffelin Hall, the Gird building and the Epitaph office were in momentary danger. The Epitaph force rallied like gallant sailors on a well beloved ship, removed the material promptly and rallied valiantly with buckets to save the building. Their efforts were successful and the Epitaph still holds forth to disseminate the daily needs of the world, defend the right and condemn the wrong.

THE FIRE WHIPPED.

At this point the fire fiend was practically whipped. The lodging house kept by Mrs. Fly, on Fremont street, seemed doomed, but the plucky little lady was to a certain extent prepared. All her furniture and the "plunder" of her lodgers was promptly removed to a safe retreat. But the flames were conquered before reaching her domicile and it yet stands upon its native heath. The north side of Fremont street had a narrow escape. The American Hotel, kept by Miss Cashman and Mrs. Cunningham, was in imminent danger, but the plucky ladies stationed several of their friends with buckets and kept the building thoroughly saturated with water, thereby preventing the flames from communicating.

A SECOND ALARM.

As the public excitement was abating and the citizens generally were breathing freer, a wild alarm of fire was again raised. It was no false cry. The flames were budding forth in goodly quantity from a house on the north side of Fremont street, next below the old store of Shaffer & Lord. The engine company was promptly on hand and fought the flames valiantly, and owing to their noble efforts the flames were crushed in their incipiency. This was the last alarm. The flames are still smouldering, and detachments of the firemen are still doing good battle; but there is no danger of further damage unless something new should occur.

WHO THE LOSERS ARE.

The losses are considerable and will foot up perhaps five hundred thousand dollars with a probable issurance of half that amount. There are some very heavy individual losses, but at the present time it is impossible to fully recount them. Among the heaviest losers are the following: The tenants of the Grand Hotel, $15,000; insurance, $6,000; Clum & Co., $2,000 loss, no insurance; Charley Tribolet, $17,000, insurance $7,000; Mr. Robinson, $2,000 loss, insurance $1,000; Epitaph Publishing Co., $950 loss, fully covered; Keefe & O'Neal, $2,000, no insurance; Lenoire, $10,000, insured for $5,000; Ben Uehrfritz, $22,000, insurance, $8,000; Webb, $2,000, no insurance; Can-can Restaurant, $2,000, no insurance; Wolfe & Co., $1,000, no insurance; Spanberg, $6,000, insurance, $5,950; Campbell & Hatch, $4,000, insurance, $3,000; C. C. Lips, $4,000, insurance, $3,000; Fitzhenry & Mansfield, $500, fully insured; Summerfield Bros., $3,000, fully insured; S. Tribolet, $2,000, fully insured; Alderson & Grattan, $1,000, no insurance; Seamans & Son, $1,500, no insurance; Nugget office, $5,000, insurance, $2,200; Cohen, $8,000, insurance, $4,000; Ahlero, $5,000, insurance, $1,700: Brown, $35,000, insurance $10,000; J. Muller, $600; Bauer, $17,000, insurance, $7,000; Meyers, $30,000; Grau & Holt, $25,000; insurance, $11,000; Schmeeding, $10,000, insurance, $5,000; Montgomery, $2,000, no insurance; Ross, $6,000; no insurance.

THE TELEGRAPH OFFICE.

The books of the telegraph office were lost in course of removal, and all the instruments would have met the same fate were it not for the activity and energy of Mr. Donnelly, the manager. Mr. Joyce lost about $25,000, but is fully insured. There are several other losses, but at the present writing it is impossible to compile them all. Much excitement prevails, and it is almost impossible to compute the actual or individual losses.

TURNVEREIN HALL.

As this hall is likely to be for some time our principal place of resort for amusements pertaining to the stage, all of our citizens have a deep interest in its condition and appointments, and it is hoped some hints looking to the greater comfort of the people and the protection of life in case of fire or any accident likely to create a panic in an audience will be received by the management in the kindly spirit of regard for the health and safety of our fellow-citizens in which they are made. They have been called forth by personal discomfort experienced on many occasions when large audiences were present, and notably during the present week, in which the presentations of Uncle Tom's Cabin have filled the house to the last corner of standing room, up stairs and down. On each evening the atmosphere of the room was unbearable. Many were compelled to strip their outers garment entirely, while all were deluged in perspiration. The ventilation is entirely inadequate, and the management of the building should see that more is provided as soon as possible.

Every one who has attended full-house entertainments at Turnverein can but have reflected as he has stood waiting fifteen minutes for an opportunity to make a comfortable exit therefrom, what the consequences would be should a fire or accident cause a panic in a large assemblage, in their frantic efforts to pass out by the one narrow entrance! The mind recoils upon itself at the picture the imagination conjures up, a picture it needs no effort to give a frightful coloring to. In many places police regulations compel the construction of most ample exit doors, and to prevent possibility of doors becoming barred, they must be so constructed as to open outward. In case of a panic the struggle to reach that one door would be a common one from all parts of the house, the two streams from the gallery meeting the struggling masses from the main hall, the occupants of the gallery having no other means of exit,—not even a window from which escape could be effected. There can be two more doors constructed in the front of the hall with a mere nominal cost and without disfiguring it. These put in, and the difficulty would be measurably overcome. Other exit doors should be provided at the sides of the hall, and yet others from the stage, all opening outwards, for use in emergencies. We sincerely hope some person in authority in the proprietorship of our favorite Turnverein will note this warning and have immediate steps taken to carry out these suggestions.

THE PASADENA ROAD.

The Pasadena folks want a better road between this city and that place. The travel between the two places is immense. A gentleman who returned from that direction a few days since, for mere curiosty sake counted the teams he met on the way. They numbered twenty-two within the eight miles. It has been stated to us that an average of upwards of one hundred teams pass over the road daily, in going and coming. and it is a fact that many persons are deterred from coming to this city on account of the bad condition of the roads. It is also a fact that the Arroyo road is not a regularly laid out and established road, but winds in and out, and is pushed hither and thither at the pleasure of the owners of the land through which it runs, and is even liable at any time to be closed up entirely. Pasadena deserves a good road, and the Board of Supervisors should see to it that she has it.

TOMBSTONE FIRE.

In our telegraphic columns will be found a graphic description of the desolating fire at Tombstone, additional to that published yesterday. The loss to the business portion of the town is large, but the greatest inconvenience will be in the total destruction of the hotels. The Grand, Cosmopolitan and Brown's were the only public hotels of note. The latter was more of a lodging house, and had no eating attachments, its patrons taking their meals at the restaurants, in which Tombstone abounds. The heaviest commercial houses are saved, and we presume Tombstone will rise from its ashes and be itself again within a few weeks.

It is asserted that the loss in fruit, especially grapes, in the Sonoma valley country is fully twenty per cent. There was a heavy frost for four consecutive nights.

GREATNESS.

[From the San Francisco Chronicle.]

I looked into the night,
After the sunset's glow had fled,
And there before me lay
A revelation by the darkness made—
The mystery of the skies,
The glory of the milky way,
The star-crowned heights
The longed life of years
Would not suffice to reach,
Glimmering through the blue,
Just faintly shining through
Like atoms, those great, vast globes of light.
And what of these? The far-off stars
Shall fall like tears from off creation's face,
And of their shining glory there shall be no trace.
I saw a man slain
With pomp and kingly power,
Of thought the potentate—
The nations reverenced him,
Of nature he was king.
Her laws he read as from an open book,
Her mightiest forces took,
Like harnessed steeds, to do his will,
Making the lightnings thrill
with swift intelligence of thought,
And the still air he taught
The mystery of speech,
Until it came to be
A vast, grand, whispering gallery.
Yet he, with eloquence as silver-toned as song,
Died, life's noblest mission yet unwrought,
He gave to lonely griefs nor help, nor thought.
Before me stood a woman, pale
As the pure lily's white-tipped face;
Genius, nor aught of beauty's grace
Had she so lowly born;
The world could see no glory in the strife
Of her meek contests—life
Brought no renown, and fame no wreath
Of shining bay or laurel leaf.
But she had dropped like dew
Her tender speech; she knew
The greatness of the sad soul's needs,
And her sweet words and kindly deeds
Had softened widow's woes,
And orphans' blessings round her rose,
And men, too, who had borne such weight
Of sorrow that it seemed as Fate
Were God, and God were naught,
Had by her such sweet faith been taught
That sorrow had for them a blessing wrought.
And God shall write her great,
Unto life's noblest mission true,
That mission which is only but to do
Ever the duty that lies neare-t you.
—MRS. HARRISON GRAY OTIS.

SANTA BARBARA, April, 1882.

CRANKISM.

Crankism seems to be the order of the day. In all ages there have been sporadic instances of the genus; but in this last quarter of the present cycle, there seems to be a full crop of them. Since Booth's time, the seeds of vindictive sore-head-ism have germinated in every country under the sun; and our own—the land of light and liberty—has furnished its full quota. The Chief Executive was the other day the object of a mean and cowardly attack, the weapon being an anonymous postal card. Some crank, who dare not write his own name, wishes to lay his hand upon the helm of State and run our gallant craft into the cesspool of European politics. Aroint thee, crank! We of the United States mean to do exactly what is right ourselves—in short, to mind our own business. Commanding, as we do, the respect of the whole world, and sympathizing, as we do, with the distressed of all nations, we have no sympathy with assassination and no desire to don the helmet of Don Quixote, and run amuck against the windmills of another hemisphere.

NOTES, ETC.

Ex-Gov. C. C. Washburn, whose death was reported a few days since, left property valued at $2,500,000.

An Oregon man fell on the icy walk and broke his nose, and when he came to sue for damages the jury held that his looks had been improved thirty per cent. He therefore got nothing.

A steamer has been placed on the American river between Sacramento and Folsom. The distance is thirty-six miles. The river was navigated in 1852 and '62, but not since until the present effort.

The "root of all evil" is striking deep in American soil if we can believe a statistician, who asserts there are on the Speaker's table in the House of Representatives, bills appropriating $730,000,000 above the legitimate expenses of the government.

It is estimated California has now 100,000 acres in vines, and it is thought that before ten years shall elapse she will surpass any country in the world in extent of vineyards. The price for new dry wines red or white, averages 20 to 25 cents. The same wine after handling, 55 to 75 cents per gallon.

A Cincinnati court has decided that there must be no swearing by telephone. A customer of the talk-far-a-way-company swore, over the line, at the manager, because he could not raise the party called up. The telephone company thereupon cut off the profane patron, and a law suit followed, the defense being that its contract was for the transmission of proper language.

It was many years ago said that politics makes strange bed-fellows. This has been recently verified by the drifting together on the surface of the political ocean, of Kearney and Pixley of the Argonaut. Pixley soured over Arthur's veto, and the fermentation brought to the top of his reservoir all the vile stuff within it. It was like "mother's milk" to Kearney, hence the mutual admiration.

The remark was hazarded before a true son of Marseilles that, in comparison with the ocean, the Mediterranean is a placid and calm expanse of water. "Placid and calm!" echoes the southern patriot; "that's all you know about the Mediterranean. I'll tell you what happened me once. I was coming to Paris, and I brought a bottle of Mediterranean water with me—I always carry it with me to think of home—and I'll be hanged, sir, if the moment I entered the car every man jack in it wasn't seasick. And they were old sailors, too. That's how calm and placid the Mediterranean is, sir."

Eastern correspondents assert that the use of electricity as a motive power has passed the experimental stage. A company in Newark N. J., is leasing power at $150 a year per horse power, for ten hours a day. Specimens of the famous Faure Storage batteries have just been received in New York. A battery weighing 300 pounds and occupying no more space than a very small trunk will contain enough power to give off five horse-power for one hour, or the power can be given off as slowly as is wanted. Such a battery, for instance, would run a sewing machine night and day for ten days, because the expenditure would be very small.

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES

The Star Route Cases up again—The Accused all Present.

The New York Men are Favorites in the Pool—A Long List of Casualties and Crimes—Failures.

[Associated Press Dispatches.]

WASHINGTON, May 26.—The Star Route cases came up this morning. All the defendants were present except Peck. Chandler made a motion to quash the old indictments upon the ground that the new indictments covered the same matter. Wilson, for the defense, stated that Totten was ill and asked for delay until to-morrow. The Attorney-General wished it understood that it is the intention of the Government to see whether these men have been justly or unjustly accused, and to bring these cases promptly to an end, Wilson claimed that the responsibility for delay rested entirely with the Government. The cases went over until to-morrow.

CHINESE CERTIFICATES.

The Secretary of the Treasury has prepared a circular to Collectors of Customs, prescribing the form of certificate to be delivered to Chinese laborers departing from this country entitling them to return under the Act of May 6th, 1882. It is provided that the certificates shall be printed on bank note-fibre paper, so as to prevent counterfeit.

CALLED UP.

In the House, Calkins called up the contested election case of Mackey vs. Dibble.

PRESIDENT AND CABINET ON THE WING.

The President gave an informal lunch to the members of the Cabinet to-day, and then left for New York. Attorney - General Brewster accompanied him. Secretary Folger and Lincoln join him in New York on Monday. The party will review the parade on decoration day, but will not attend the memorial exercises in the evening.

BLACKBURN'S RESOLUTION.

The Blackburn resolution, introduced in the House was the outcome of a conference of leading Democrats.

SECRET SESSION.

The committee on rules held a secret session this morning considering the deadlock. Members of both parties took an active part in the discussion. The meeting of the Republican caucus committee on the subject was without result.

AND NOW IT IS NEW YORK MEN.

It is expected that the President will make a nomination before long for Associate Justice of Arizona, in place of Judge Porter. Charges have been preferred against Porter and they are believed to be sufficient to warrant his removal. It is rumored that the President contemplates the appointment of Rufus Andrews, a New York lawyer and personal friend, to Porter's place.

THE NICARAGUA CANAL.

Congressman Page called upon Mr. Williams, Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee to-day and requested him to induce the committee to take prompt action on the bill to construct the Nicaragua canal. Mr. Williams promised that within the next ten days the canal bill would be considered and a report made as soon as possible.

Suing for a "Divvy" of the Spoils.

DENVER, May 26.—The Denver and New Orleans Railroad has entered suit against the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Company to compel the latter road to pay the former a proper share of the tolls on the through western freight consigned via these two roads. The suits, if succesful, will probably break the tripartite pool between the Union Pacific, Denver and Rio Grande and Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe roads.

The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, May 26.—The failures the past week throughout the United States reported to New York are 126 against 124 last week. The eastern States had 19, western 38, southern 33, middle 21, Pacific Coast and Territories 9.

A Record of Fires, Suicide and Murder.

PHILADELPHIA, May 26.—A large fire is burning at Kane, McKean county, in this State.

RIGA, Russia, May 26.—A fire at Parquieterrie factory, in the suburbs, destroyed over forty houses. Loss, 330,000 roubles.

CAIRO, Ill., May 26.—A fire on a train of freight cars on the Illinois Central destroyed four cars of grain, one of meat, and badly damaged another. No one hurt.

TOLEDO, May 26.—A fire this morning destroyed the Griffith portable cot manufactory and contents, including some 30,000 finished and unfinished cots. Loss, $40,000; insurance, $12,000. One hundred hands are out of employment.

SACRAMENTO, May 26.—Tue wholesale and retail grocer, C. W. Rapp, committed suicide by shooting himself. Heart disease and financial embarrassment contributed to the suicidal impulse.

DENVER, (Col.) May 26.—Herman Wulsten, aged 17, a student in the Brinker Military Institute of this city, was shot and killed this afternoon by a playmate named W. A. Watson, of the same age, in a boyish frolic, with a drill musket, supposed to be unloaded. Both boys are residents of this State.

SALT LAKE, May 26.—A terrible tragedy occurred at John Smyth's ranch, on the Utah Central road, near Melford, yesterday afternoon. Smyth, being crazed with whisky, shot his wife in the back with a double barreled shotgun and then shot himself. Smyth came from California to Utah and was a forty-niner.

CHICAGO, May 26.—At Highwood, a northern suburb, this morning, the house of a man named McCarthy, was discovered to have been burned, and his body found in ashes. The indications point to murder, and the object is supposed to be the money he received recently from stock sales. Nobody knew of the affair until daylight, when the smoking ruins attracted attention, and the charred remains were found. A posse of citizens are scouring the country around, and every effort is being made to overtake the murderers.

A Snow Slide.

SALT LAKE, May 26.—A snow slide yesterday in Big Cottonwood canyon, at the Richmond mine, burried Richard Graves under seventy feet of earth and snow. The body has not been recovered. His cabin was crushed by the slide and his little son buried, but was rescued in time by the miners to save his life.

The Thayer-Somerset case occupied the attention of Justice Fisher all yesterday. Thayer's examination was finished, and a part of Mrs. Thayer's evidence was heard, when the Court adjourned till 9 A. Yesterday morning a "Celestial" could be seen walking along Spring street, leading by the hand a Chinese child not over six years old, who had a cigar held in a cigar-holder in his mouth. A RASH ACT.

Thomas Gray, an old Resident of this city, Commits Suicide.

Some Particulars—Mrs. Gray's Testimony Before the Coroner's Jury—The Verdict Rendered.

Thomas Gray who kept a wood-yard at 78 Spring street, committed suicide at his residence on the corner of Flower and Seventh streets, at 5;15 o'clock yesterday morning. The family attribute the cause to mental aberration brought about by continued disease. Some four years ago he had the measles, which settled in his back, and which has since bothered him. About two weeks ago he strained his back lifting a bale of hay, and which has given him severe pain ever since. About two weeks ago he purchased his wood and coal yard of J. W. Davies. He complained that the investment was an unfortunate one for him, and seemed much depressed in spirts, despite all the efforts of his wife to cheer and encourage him. He did not sleep any Thursday night, but was restless all night. This she attributed to the pain in his back The rest of the circumstance she tells in her testimony. Gray is reported to have been a Spiritualist. If so,he may thought that death would be a door into another life where he would be free from trouble.

A TIMES reporter visited the place yesterday evening and viewed the remains. The bullet had entered the side of the head just above the right ear and came out on the opposite side and embedded itself in the bedroom door. Stains of his blood were on the bedroom floor. The pistol was a heavy six-shooting revolver of the "Whistler" brand. An inquest was held at 1 P. M. by Coroner H. Nadeau, when the following testimony and verdict were given:

Lucy Gray, duly sworn, said: I am the wife of deceased, Thomas Gray, native of Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, aged 59 years. He seemed to be in good spirits for some time, except last night, having hurt his back a few days previous. He complained of pains and headache. I never heard him say a word or expression that he would attempt to take his life. Last night he went to bed as usual; however he did not rest well; suppose on account of his pains. He got up this morning about a quarter past five o'clock. The only conversation this morning was to tell Mary (his step-daughter) to take the baby and dress her. I heard a noise, and thought it was outside, or out on the porch; went out and saw nothing. Went to his room to call him to breakfast; opened the door—the room was full of smoke—and saw him in the rocking chair. He was already dead. Went out and called the children; came to him again; put my hand on his forehead, and saw a pistol in his right hand resting on his thigh. The only cause that might have pushed him to such an act was financial trouble. He bought that revolver about a year ago, when he went to Arizona.

E. DeCamp, duly sworn, said: Answering to a telephone call, at seven o'clock this morning, I went to the house and found the deceased in a rocking chair, with a pistol in his right hand, a wound on the right side and also on the left of his head; found the ball in the door of the room; which I removed at the Coroner's request. Also examined the pistol and found one chamber empty, and with the Coroner's permission I took charge of the body. When I first entered the room I found the deceased dead.

VERDICT.

In the matter of the inquisition upon the body of Thomas Gray, deceased, before H. Nadeau, Coroner:

We, the undersigned, the jurors summoned to appear before H. Nadeau, the Coroner of the county of Los Angeles, at the house of deceased, in Los Angeles city, on the 26th day of May, A. D. 1882, to inquire into the cause of the death of Thomas Gray, having been duly sworn according to law, and having made such inquisition, after inspecting the body, and hearing the testimony adduced, upon our oaths each and all do say, that we find that the deceased was named Thomas Gray, was a native of Pennsylvania, aged about 59 years, came to his death on the 26th day of May, 1882, in this county, by reason of a pistol shot wound inflicted by his own hand with suicidal intent, induced by financial troubles.

All of which we duly certify by this inquisition in writing, by us signed, this 26th day of May, A. D. 1882.

ANOTHER CHEESE FACTORY.

It is Located at the Ballona—Turns Out 150 Pounds per day.

About three and a half miles from Santa Monica, at the lower end of the Ballona district, Mr. Anderson Rose owns a large tract of first rate grazing land. Several years ago he erected a cheese factory there, but after various attempts to make cheese, with only indifferent success, he was discouraged and disposed to give it up, when, about fifteen months since, Mr. Ward, a practical cheese maker made his appearance, and has since been employed, in connection with Mr. Wm. Rose, and they are now turning out cheese of the best quality. Mr. Rose milks seventy or eighty cows, all his own, and from their milk 120 pounds of cheese per day is manufactured, which finds ready sale as fast as it is in condition for the market. The necessary facilities are there for increasing the product to 225 pounds per day, and any of the neighboring farmers can there find a market for their cow fruit if they so desire. J.

A Pioneer Institution.

Harper, Reynolds & Co. expect to remove to their new building next Monday week. The portion of it fronting on Los Angeles street is already occupied by the can manufactory. A TIMES reporter visited it yesterday and found some of the men at work on an order from George Compton of Newhall for 1,000 five-gallon oil cans. The firm manufacture wood cases for all kinds of cans also. When completed the building will extend from Main to Los Angeles street, a depth of 264 feet. The firm have recently purchased a wing 22x70 feet which will form an addition to the manufactory. They now employ a total force of twenty-five men and will increase the number largely when they occupy the new building. This institution has steadily grown, notwithstanding the serious crippling experienced by the recent fire, and it is to-day one of the strongest and most enterprising business firms in Los Angeles.

The ditch house at the head camp of the Cedar Creek Ditch Company, near Emigrant Gap, recently caught fire from a defective stovepipe. A quantity of giant powder and caps were stored in the building, and when the fire reached them they blew it to atoms.

THE WATER QUESTION AGAIN.

"Regador" Presents Some Forcible Facts for Consideration.

EDITOR TIMES: A correspondent in this morning's Herald, in not very gentlemanly language, criticises my communication in yesterday's TIMES on the present status of the water question. But he therein, unintentionally, doubtless, incidentally fortifies the position I took, and employs my urgent argument—that the city authorities should take immediate legal steps to fully and finally vindicate its rights in this matter. I will endeavor, and without resorting to personal abuse either, to make this clear to the comprehension of your readers and to the agent of the owner of the Feliz rancho, and the rest of mankind.

Notwithstanding the fact that this city has, under Spanish, Mexican and American rule, claimed and maintained, without dispute, till lately, for more than one hundred years, had control of all the waters of Los Angeles river; and notwithstanding the late decision of the Supreme Court, confirming to the city the control, the correspondent aforesaid avows that the Feliz ranch people intend to use the full amount of their eight cubic feet per second, whenever the necessities of the ranch require it. This would only confirm what I said—that we should have chronic water troubles till the city has fully vindicated its right, under the late decision of the Supreme Court, to the control of the waters of the river.

Let us inquire a little into this preposterous claim of eight cubic feet of water per second, for four hundred acres of land, and see if it is likely to stand if contested, or if it ought to stand.

In the suit of Los Angeles vs. Baldwin, the District Court "found" in substance (Finding xi.) that the city had about eleven thousand acres of irrigable land, and the Feliz rancho about four hundred acres, and (Finding xvi.) that the flow of water in the river at the point where defendants diverted it, was about twenty-two cubic feet per second etc.; and then, (Finding xvii.) that the defendants were entitled to eight cubic feet of water per second! Now if we put the luminous reasoning of the Court in mathematical form, and suppose further that it had "found" that the city had eleven hundred acres of irrigable land and the Feliz rancho four hundred acres, then it would have stood, according to the rule of three, thus: 1100: 400: 22:8—giving thereby to the four hundred acres of the Feliz rancho, eight feet of water. But unfortunately the Court "found" that the city had about eleven thousand acres, instead of eleven hundred acres—which, sad to say, knocks the bottom entirely out of the Court's reasoning, on the "riparian" lay-out. And certainly there is no other theory on which the rancho can base its unconscionable claims to eight cubic feet of water, day and night! It may be averred that a former Supreme Court confirmed the above "adjudication of water rights," to which it may be replied that a later and more intelligent Supreme Court awarded to the city of Los Angeles the absolute control of the waters of the Los Angeles river. From which it must follow, first or last, that all who use those waters for irrigation, including the Feliz ranch owners, the successors of Vignes & Wolfskill and others who dug the first ditches, and Mr. Nadeau who has just constructed the last must come to the Zanjero's office and buy the same, on a common footing, as all but a few lawless persons are now doing, and ever have done from time immemorial.

To show the logical result of reasoning from the postulates of the District Court in the case of Los Angeles vs. Baldwin; by proportion as before, we have the following, viz: 11,000 acres are to 400 acres, as 22 cubic feet are to 8-10 of one cubic foot! which last amount of water, according to the inexorable logic of the District Court, confirmed by our former Supreme Court, is all that the Feliz ranch is entitled to.

I beg that the agent for the owner of the Feliz ranch will put the above in his pipe and smoke it, with the compliments of REGADOR.

Los Angeles, May 26, 1882

Card from Col. G. Wiley Wells.

EDITOR TIMES: My attention has been called to an item published in the Herald this morning, taken from the San Diego Sun, in which the application of Harry M. Schiller, of San Diego, for examination before the Board of Examiners for appointment as a cadet to the Naval Academy is discussed by that paper, preceded by the ill-natured heading "Was it Design?"

For several weeks preceding the examination the following notice was published daily in the papers, giving publicity to the proposed examination:

U. S. NAVAL ACADEMY CADETSHIP.

"Notice is hereby given that a competitive examination for a cadetship in the U. S. Naval Academy will be held at the Supreme Court room, Mascarel Block, on Main street, in Los Angeles, Cal., on the 20th day of May, 1882. All young men between the ages of fourteen and eighteen who desire to enter the examination are invited to be present."

Soon after the first publication of that notice I received a letter from Mr. Schiller stating that he was a candidate for examination, etc. There was no other "intimation" that the public notice extended to him or any other person to apply for examination I am aware of, and I presume his application was in response to the notice. Nor did that notice contain any "promise to send instructions, etc.," as stated in the Sun article referred to, but, nevertheless, I replied to his letter as I did to the other applicants, acknowledging its receipt, inclosing a printed notice referred to as giving the date of the examination, and also stated in my letter the course of studies through which the examination would be conducted.

Mr. Schiller can blame no one but himself for his failure to attend the examination, as timely notice was given through the press, and he had all the opportunity for preparation that the other young gentlemen composing the class enjoyed, and no partiality was shown either before or at the examination to any of the candidates. As to the representation of San Diego county at the examination I have only to add that Mr. Merriam, of Apex, was its representative, and he was examined with the other applicants. There was nothing to prevent all the boys in San Diego county being present and participating in the contest if they had so desired; their failure to do so was not the fault of the Board, for ample notice was given, as before stated. G. WILEY WELLS,

President of Examining Board.

Decoration Day.

Memorial Day, Tuesday, May 30th, will be duly observed at Los Angeles, under direction of the Grand Army of the Republic, by a procession, composed of the military, fire department, civic societies and citizens to the cemetery, where the soldiers' graves will be decorated. Returning, the procession will proceed to Turnverein Hall and will then disband, and the usual memorial services, consisting of music, singing, speeches, a poem by J. F. Kercheval, and an oration by Col. J. F. Godfrey, will take place in the hall.

THE LAUREL TREE.

The High School Graduating Class of 1882 Plant a Tree.

Interesting Exercises by the Scholars—A Motto Chosen—Speeches by Guinn, Brousseau and Kurtz.

Yesterday afternoon at one o'clock witnessed the beautiful ceremony of planting the tree for the graduating class of 1882 in the yard of the High School. The different schools of the city were dismissed, and a large gathering was present. The tree was an East India laurel, known technically as Laurus Indica. The following was the programme: Quartette, "Days That are Gone Seem the Brightest;" oration, Robert Dominguez; class history, Effie Baxter; planting the tree; proclamation of the class motto, Vincent, que se vincit. (he conquers who overcomes himself); class prophecy, Hannah Ball; address by Superintendent Guinn (given below); song by the class; remarks by President Brousseau and Dr. J. Kurz. The following is Superintendent Guinn's address:

It has become an established custom that each outgoing class of our High School shall plant a memorial tree. To observe that beautiful custom we are met here to-day. You are, the class of 1882, soon to sever your connection with our school, to unloose the ties that bind you together as a class. Before bidding adieu to your alma mater, it is fitting that you leave behind you a memento that will serve to keep green in memory you who go forth from our scholastic halls. In coming years, when, to you, life has a broader significance; when you have taken upon yourselves new duties and new responsibilities, may we not hope that at recurring anniversaries of this day, reunited, your little band may meet beneath the sheltering branches of this, your memorial tree, to renew the friendships of youth, and to strengthen the ties formed in your school days. You have chosen a fitting memento, the laurel, emblem of victory. To your alma mater, a memorial, to you let it be, emblematic of your career in the busy, active world that lies before you. In whatever vocation you find your life work, strive to excel; strive to wear the laurel wreath, the victor's crown. In the primal days of the world's history the laurel wreath symbolized victories won by brute force in the gladiatorial combat or on the field of battle. The loftier ambition of the Roman imperator was to wear the laurel wreath in a triumphal procession. To be the central figure in one of these mighty pageants, to enter the holy city by the gate of triumph, to pass through streets strewn with flowers, past altars smoking with incense, the spoils of plundered nations, with captured kings in chains borne before; to be thus honored, to win the laurel, Roman generals and Roman soldiers braved death on battlefields and periled life amid Arctic snows and desert sands.

To wear the laurel wreath, to bear the laurel bough on a "triumph" was the noblest reward, the highest honor that imperial Rome could bestow upon her heroes. Might and brute force no longer rule the world. Not across fields of battle lies the only path to fame and honor. Peace has her victors, and labor her triumphal processions. Not on the brow of the warrior should rest the victor's crown, but upon the temples of him who conquers the forces of nature and turns them to the good, to the well being, to the happiness of his fellowman. Not to the destroyer, but to the builder; not to him who conquers foes without, but to him who conquers those within himself should be given the victor's crown. And you who gather here to-day around this memorial tree; you who are soon to leave us and to go forth to battle with the stern realities of life, through the struggles, the trials, the temptations, the crosses that will beset you, be true to yourselves, be true to your God. And when your life's work is done, nobly done, be its sphere lofty or humble. When you have laid aside the armor with which you have battled for justice, for truth, for God, for humanity, are at rest, may you enter that realm of the blest beyond the tomb wearing the victor's crown.

COAST NOTES.

Montana is making large shipments of potatoes to the East.

The merchants of Walkerville, M. T., are discussing the question of closing their stores on Sunday.

Dr. Babcock, the inventor of the fire extinguisher, was arrested in Stockton recently for drunkenness.

This is a freak of commerce. Buffalo killed in Montana and shipped to New York are canned there and reshipped to Montana.

In Tombstone, Arizona, is a Chinese washman who has issued cards on which is printed: "Patronize Home Industry. The American Laundry. Un Wo, proprietor."

The Josephine, the first boat of the season, reached Benton, M. T., May 3d, being twenty seven days ahead of the first arrival last year, and within five days of the earliest arrival on record.

Most of the orchards in Siskiyou were completely ruined by the severe frosts of last week, and the apple crop will be exceedingly light. Grain crops were badly hurt, but very little was killed.

Some miscreant made another attempt to burn the town of Odin, Modoc county, a few night ago, the attempt being discovered before the fire obtained headway. Several parties are under suspicion.

Two white men have visited the mountain of burning coal on the Navajo Reservation, A. T. They are the first white men who have ever seen it. They say it seems to have been burning for several hundred years.

On Saturday night unknown persons entered the gardens of Henry Armbrust, at Stockton, and maliciously cut down over 2,000 flourishing tomato vines, the fruit of which would have been marketable within a few weeks.

A mining company in Siskiyou county recently turned off an old horse which had been working a whim in their claim for twenty-seven years, and is now thirty-three years old. He appears still hale and hearty, and seems to take much comfort in his release from harness.

The miners who went from Virginia City, Nev., to work in the Santa Maria mines in Mexico, write to the Chronicle of Virginia and contradict the report that they are dissatisfied with their new places. None of them receive less than $3 per day, and some as high as $7.

It is expected that the furnace of the Clipper Gap Iron Company will start up by the first of June, by which time enough charcoal will be on hand to insure a long run. To supply the necessary amount of charcoal 30,000 cords of wood have to be cut, which is being done by a force of 125 wood choppers, and the wood they cut is on land owned by the company in Placer and Nevada counties.

Alleged Forgery.

F. F. Connor, of this city, was arrested yesterday by a private detective of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company on a charge of forging General Superintendent Fillmore's name to passes over the road. The offense was committed in Arizona, and Connor says he will go back to answer to the charge without the necessary requisition from Governor Trittle. Connor was locked up last night in the county jail. He is said to be very respectably connected and it is hoped the charges will prove to be unfounded.
